Description

The Kinderhaus Markt in Rankweil is a light-filled, nature-oriented facility for early childhood education that meets the growing demand for childcare in the community. Three almost identical group areas for a total of 72 children are arranged around a central area with a staircase. The building also houses retreat and studio rooms, a children's restaurant, and green roof terraces, and there is a nature-inspired garden in the outdoor area. The consistent use of wood characterises the architecture and brings the nature-inspired design to life.
